The Times They Are A-Changing:

Are You Ready?

Since 1781 we have been living under an outer planetary influence known as “The Cross of Planning”. These ‘Crosses’ are influences that last for a few hundred years and we see it as the normal way we live our lives. What happens when these influences wane and are no longer familiar to us? There are many who have become dependent on the old system and do whatever they can to keep it that way because the prospect of change is too challenging. That is, unless you are someone who likes to be present in the moment and enjoy a challenge. There are a few of those around and thankfully I am one of those people.

We are almost on the cusp of an era that will ultimately prove to be a far better way of life than what we are experiencing now. Only if we are ready for it, will we be sufficiently prepared. There will be no-one planning every detail of our lives anymore; there will be no councils or burgeoning governments. If you are already aware of what is going on you will know about the vast levels of political and corporate corruption invading every walk of life. Even now they are desperate to perpetuate a system that has largely served a small group of people, before it finally breaks down in 2027.

When this current era began in 1781 it was useful; it was supportive of the people. It gave mankind an aspect of planning that was needed at the time. During this era schools were set up, education became more widely spread and almost all children have had the opportunity to have some level of schooling. Today, however, it has become evident that education has simply become a way of programming the younger generation into conforming and being submissive. While it all breaks down we may suffer from the loss of that old system unless we have prepared ourselves for a new, more community-oriented way of life. For instance, when my two younger children were struggling with the education system, I took them out and home educated them. It turned out to be the most valuable decision I have ever made. These two gained wisdom about life that cannot be taught and yet had wonderful friends from the group we joined of like minded parents with wide and versatile teaching skills that we were all willing to contribute.

Without other people planning our lives we can re-group into functional communities, growing our own food and supporting our own community. It’s already time to start preparing for this, just as we did with the home education. The current education system will no longer be functional at the start of the new era - The Cross of The Sleeping Phoenix - which commences in 2027. There will be no authority we can go and ask for help; just our own community. We need to find ways, and be prepared to help each other without material gain to our self. Watch the Will Smith movie “Seven Pounds” to see how it is possible to change the lives of other people, even those we don’t know.

The 1960’s brought us the spiritual movement which catalysed a “wake-up” era. Since then Governments have desperately tried to maintain their dominance as being in control served them, but not the people. The money system is now so perforated with corrupt practices that in a world where there is plenty to share, there are still people starving and others who have so much that we can hardly even imagine what they might want to do with so much. Vast differences in lifestyle, so evident here in Sri Lanka from where I am writing this, are clearly breaking down in favour of love, peace, sharing and compassion.

These people who have amassed wealth well beyond what they need will not be able to maintain their power because those planetary influences simply won’t support them. It has happened before and it will happen again, but not for a long time. The underlying planetary cycles are too powerful to be changed and there is nothing that can stop the old way shattering. We can no longer continue to trust that government institutions are here to support us. What shifted back in the sixties with that spiritual movement was that we were able to dig deep and find ourselves. More and more people are experiencing the awakening of “spirit awareness”. This happens in the solar plexus centre, the centre of emotions. Recently it was discovered that the solar plexus acts like a second brain, an emotional brain. This is where our mutation takes place. It also brings a time when it is absolutely necessary to be grounded and centred in the body – in the sacral centre; we cannot truly connect to spirit unless we have our feet firmly planted on the ground.

In the coming Cross of The Sleeping Phoenix there will be support for the individual. It may appear to be more selfish, but in a community, life will become more balanced. Those who are used to being taken care of will have to learn to look after themselves and this will come as a shock. For a while, as it changes, it will be every man for himself as each one of us will be busy just surviving.

Don’t worry – if we know we can be prepared. This era will last for a long time and will become a second Eden.

If you want to know more about how to survive the breakdown, and transition easily into the new era then it is well worth having a Human Design reading. When we understand how we function in the world in relation to other people we allow ourselves to relax, settle more into the body and just be ourselves. After all we really have nothing to prove and yet we spend our whole life trying to prove our worth to other people. It's so much easier just to know who we are and who they are.
